Don't Risk Pneumonia By Neglecting a Cold

If you have a cough or cold, don't neglect it during this pneumonia weather. A cough or cold weakens your resistance. If you let it "go down" into your chest it always causes congestion in your bronchial tubes—and these tubes lead directly into your lungs.

If you get pneumonia, call a doctor immediately. But if you have a threatening cold or cough—even bronchitis—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! End it before inflammation goes down into the "danger zone."

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of trouble. Real Medicine reaching deep with its healing power penetrating through and through the irritated membranes.

With the very first swallow of Cherry Pectoral you feel its comforting warmth. The soothing, healing powers of this hospital-tested medicine are absorbed by the linings of throat, chest and bronchial tubes just as ink is absorbed by a blotter. This is why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral so quickly stops the cough, drives out the cold and brings sure, lasting relief.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is used by doctors and hospital clinics—for children and grown people. Even sick children love its flavor. At all drug stores 60c, twice as much, $1.00.

Warren Lauds Bermuda Ways

Kingstonian Estimated in Praise of People and Climate of Bermuda—Extends Stay Indefinitely.

The Royal Gazette and Colonist Daily published at Hamilton, Bermuda, in its issue of February 15 said:

In an age when kicks and complaints are far more prevalent than expressions of appreciation of a service tendered or a courtesy extended it is refreshing to find a visitor who feels it incumbent on him to make an acknowledgment of the treatment universally accorded to him during his stay in Bermuda.

We refer to Mr. Charles A. Warren of Kingston, New York, who is a guest at the Hamilton Hotel. Mr. Warren was the winner of the second flight of the beaten eight in the Belmont Manor Golf Tournament which concluded on Saturday last.

He came intending to stay for one week, definitely arranged to stay three, and will probably extend his visit for a longer period, partly because of our climate which as a traveler of wide experience he considers the finest he has ever seen, largely because of the reception he has met with throughout the island.

Mr. Warren says it is unusual for tourists in any resort to be able to enter golf tournaments without expense, and that it would be impossible to better the treatment, the cordiality, the all-round friendliness, which characterized the Belmont Manor Tournament, and that the thanks of all the golfers are heartily extended to Mr. A. P. Thompson for his hospitality.

The courtesy of the salespeople in the stores in all parts of Bermuda has charmed Mr. Warren, who is delighted with the fact that he can go into a store in Bermuda and be treated in a manner which does not indicate an eagerness to sell goods, get one's money, and get rid of the customer as speedily as possible. On this point, Mr. Warren can think of only one place in the world which he has visited, which in any way approaches Bermuda. Strangely enough, that place is Dublin, Ireland.

Mr. Warren says he has been made welcome everywhere he has been in Bermuda and hopes to make this his first visit, the forerunner of many others.

Speaking on things generally he said he had been much impressed by the lovely healthy looking children he had seen on all sides. He considers the youth of Bermuda fortunate in many respects and made particular reference to the opportunities available to them in their education musically, as evidenced by the annual visits of a representative of the Associated Board of The Royal Academy of Music for the purpose of examining candidates for musical honors. Mr. Warren feels that such a centralization of control in this sphere as is conducted by the Associated Board throughout the British Empire might well be emulated with advantage in the United States.

TIME FOR CHANGE IN MENTAL HABITS

Simple Rules for Guidance of Middle-Aged.

Many persons who have managed to get through the years of childhood and youth fairly well find that their mental habits are not adequate for the demands and changes of middle age. The unhappy are always wrong, says Dr. Alice E. Johnson in the Survey. So if one finds oneself middle aged and unhappy, the only thing to do is to change one's mental habits.

Of course this is easier said than done. Yet it is not impossible, for while childhood is the ideal time to establish right habits of thinking and reacting, the laws of mental hygiene are valid at all ages and need only be applied. Frankness and courage will be needed for the task. Sentimentality and vanity must be thrown overboard along with worn-out ideals. One must learn to discriminate between reasons and excuses and to discard the excuses. Only in this way can a life of reality be submitted for one of mere wishes.

To aid in this readjustment of mental life, four rules may be followed. Rule 1 is "Do not say yes and no at the same time." The wobbler is always unhappy and so are his friends. It is better to make mistakes than to do nothing. If a person can learn to see a thing as a whole, he will easily decide what is good. He should remember that everything has its price and that vain regret is self-indulgence.

Rule 2 is "Do not allow an accumulation of unfinished business." Each problem should be answered as it arises. Questions that are postponed, evaded and repressed return in a dozen forms to destroy one's peace, and they soon develop into the excessive fears of the neurotic.

"Keep your mind open to new aspects of truth" is rule 3. By the time middle age is reached the hypercritical, fault-finding attitude of childhood should be left behind. Freedom, that special gift of the middle years of life, can only be achieved by letting go of the past. The open mind sees the good and bad in everything and looks for the ultimate meaning of things. Those who disregard this rule live a narrow, sterile life with the prospect of an irritable, unlovely old age.

"Disregard what is merely personal," rule 4 reads. Most of the destructive emotions such as fear, hatred, jealousy and envy are personal, and since no life is lived alone, those should be discarded. The same is true for grudges and moodiness. The reason for moodiness is not temperament, but self-love, and there is no excuse for it. Unless a feeling can be translated into useful action it need not be considered.

By following these rules, by learning if one cannot get what is wanted, to accept cheerfully what comes, by saying yes to life, one may be free from the uncertainties of youth and will see catastrophes in the passing of the years.

Heavy Hanger Doors

The cost of opening the doors of the hanger of the Los Angeles at Lakewood, N. J., has been greatly exaggerated. The doors are the conventional, sliding-door type, approximately 120 feet high and 120 feet wide. Each of the four leaves weighs about 200 tons. In order to open, each door must travel approximately 120 feet. They are operated by electric motors of about 200 horsepower or alternatively by hand. By use of motors each door is opened in about five minutes. The cost is probably that of the electric power, and is not more than a few dollars.

Commercial Power

Corollia Vanderbilt, Jr., was talking to a New York reporter about Madame Jacques Vasson and the recent marriage by the Catholic church of her marriage to the Duke of Marlborough.

"On her father's part," he said, "this was a marriage of expediency and selfish ambition. On the Duke's part it was a worse thing still, a thing of greed and covetousness."

"The Duke reminds me of the little girl whose school teacher said:

"Mind, what is the function of poetry?"

"Believe," answered little Mary."

The half-a-day man

FOR months he had hated to face it. . . . He was slipping. Losing out. He who once had shown such shining promise! His old-time vigor had gone. Ambition, itself! What had happened? He seemed to grow weary before the day was half-way through! What curse was befalling his life?

Constipation blights many a bright career. It destroys initiative. It weakens the body and leads to disease after disease. Yet, constipation can be relieved—safely, permanently. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to give relief!

Why part-bran products are ineffective

Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran. They know that 100% bran means 100% results! Here is why:

ALL-BRAN carries through the system moisture which its "bulk" absorbs. And it gently distends the intestines—cleansing, removing wastes. ALL-BRAN contains sufficient "bulk" to perform this work—because it is 100% bran. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is too small to be entirely effective.

Don't risk dangerous drugs

ALL-BRAN works as nature does. How different from pills and drugs whose dose must be constantly increased.

Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak a few moments to bring out its nut-like flavor. Mix it with other cereals. Use it in soups. Try the recipes on every package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the original 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Comes ready to eat. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants. On diners.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TRAIN AND WEATHER

"Whether it's a fine day or whether it is a rainy day I go on my journeys just the same," said the train.

"Now, some creatures always wait to see what the weather is going to do. They look out of their windows and they say:

"Well, it will be too wet to play tennis today."

"I've even heard that they think they won't go in swimming when it rains as they fear it will be too cold."

"But I do not bother about the weather. I go along just the same."

"Sometimes when there are dreadfully bad storms in the winter I have to wait until they blow snow out of my tracks, but I am ready to go ahead just as soon as I can."

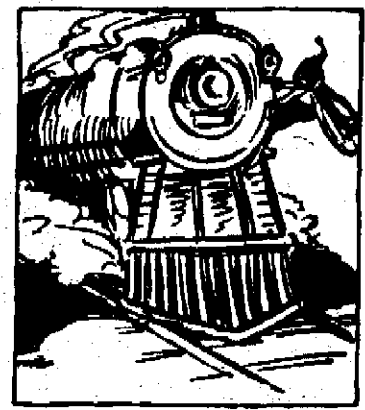

"I do not object to the snow unless it actually gets so in my way I cannot move."

"I am above such things as the weather, or if I am not exactly above the weather at least I go ahead right through it."

Billie Brownie was paying a visit to the train as the train was waiting to start off early in the morning.

It was a day when the skies were overcast and when it did look as though it might rain any moment.

Billie Brownie had said to the train that he knew the train would be starting off right on time in spite of the way the weather looked.

Billie Brownie Was Paying a Visit.

Billie Brownie knew all languages. Maybe he doesn't speak in all the languages that people can use, but he speaks the language of the flowers and of the birds, of the animals and of all sorts of things such as trains and boats and airplanes.

He knows what the boats are saying when they blow their whistles and what they mean by the various sounds they make on their river trips and their lake trips and their ocean voyages.

He loves trains and he loves to watch them dashing through the country. He loves to see them at night and early in the morning and he loves great stations where many trains go in and out.

He likes smaller stations, too, where a big train goes out every morning and another comes in every evening. He loves them, too, where there is just one a day, or where there is just one a week.

"Not only do you go out no matter what the weather is going to be like," he said, "but you go out on time."

"You don't overleap as people do," "You don't say:

"O, is it eight o'clock! Well, maybe I won't start quite so early this morning. Maybe I'll wait a few minutes longer."

"No, you don't decide to start at one hour when you're thinking about it the night before and then change your mind in the morning when starting time comes."

"You are so regular and so certain. I really greatly admire you, Train."

The train seemed pleased. In its great, big way, that Billie Brownie complimented it so nicely.

"Of course sometimes I suppose people wish I didn't start at exactly the same time."

"They often find it hard to get up and to 'make' me, as they say," the train said.

"Yet, for those who are on time it's so much nicer that they should not be kept waiting."

"They may not be sure that their friends will meet them on time, they may not be sure whether their friends will not have them waiting and waiting, but they will know that the train is going to start when it is supposed to start."

"Yes, I do like to be punctual."

"Sometimes after I get started I lose time, but when you think of the numbers of trains there are and how far we go and how much we have to do, how many stops to make, how much mail and freight and baggage we carry—not to mention people—I think we do pretty well."

"Of course I like to be loyal to time."

"Of course, you do," said Billie Brownie, "and I agree with you. You are very reliable, you Train family, and you certainly don't let weather upset you or change your plans."

Change of Heart

"The doctor told me I'd have a tobacco heart if I didn't stop trying cigarettes."

"Too!"

"So I started trying cigarettes and now I have a heart."

THE "ACID TEST"
FOR ACIDITY
First Bottle of Geyser Water
Points Way to Health

How many people you hear talking glibly about "acid mouth," "acid stomach," "acidosis," "hyper-acidity," etc., as if it were the latest fad, whereas genuine acidity upsets the digestive processes and bodily functions and may be at the bottom of that all "tired-out" feeling which often precedes serious illness.

Acidity probably arises most frequently from eating too soft, rich, sweet, refined food that doesn't contain enough roughage, the result being bad breath, sour stomach, indigestion, inviting constipation, rheumatism, high blood pressure, colds, grippe and pneumonia.

The State Conservation Commission, in control of the State-owned natural health springs at Saratoga, N. Y., designates Geyser as "by far the best alkaline water (strongly diuretic and antacid) for the treatment of acidosis found in dyspepsia, neuritis and rheumatism." This is authority worth your complete confidence. This statement published by the Commission for the public benefit was based on the analyses of the State chemist, American and foreign health water experts. Make the test. The first time you feel distress after a meal, drink a bottle of Geyser, delicious, sparkling, natural health water. Drink Saratoga Hathorn, natural laxative water one hour before meals for prompt, thorough internal cleansing.

LOVERS MARRY
AFTER 52 YEARS
Parted Half a Century Ago
When Man Went West to Make His Fortune.

Stout Falls, N. D.—When Victor Handley, a rancher of the Reineke district of central South Dakota, returned the other day from Canada with a bride, sweethearts of 52 years ago were united. When they parted in Canada more than half a century ago Handley set out for the United States to make a fortune for himself and the sweetheart of his youth. He thought it would not be long until he could send for the girl who had won his heart.

He became a prospector of the American West and found that he had tackled a much more difficult job than he was a mere prospector at the time. No one knows but himself how hard he worked in the effort to accumulate the comparatively small sum required to establish a home, so he could send for his Canadian sweetheart.

Battle for Home Slow

But things ran against him with the passing of the years and he became rough and swarthy in the battle for a home and bride. After years had elapsed without his being able to accumulate enough wealth to provide a home for his intended bride he came to the conclusion that she had wearied of waiting for him. In the few letters he wrote her during the early years of their separation he was ashamed to tell her he had not yet met with success.

Then came the years of meager success and mature reflection. He recently mustered up enough courage to write to his old home in Canada, and was informed that his sweetheart of 52 years ago had waited eight long years for him to send for her so they could be married, and had then abandoned all hope of hearing from her girlhood love and had married another man.

Mears Sweetheart is a Widow.

The South Dakota rancher also was informed that her husband had died some years ago. He lost no time in writing direct to his old sweetheart and the romance of 52 years ago was renewed. Recently they married and the bride has taken up her home with her husband on his South Dakota ranch. They are said to be as happy as though the marriage had taken place when they were in the flower of their youth.

Veteran Reported Slain
Hides 8 Years in Home
Budapest.—By remaining "dead" for eight years Nazzario Ragul, a peasant of the north Italian village of Morro d'Alba, was able to support himself and his wife without working, according to a report of the Budapest news paper Magyar Szag.

In 1918 the wife of Ragul received an official communication announcing that her husband had been killed at the front. Immediately she went into mourning, but not for long. Within a few months she appeared to the neighbors as a very cheerful and happy.

Ragul had been wounded. On recovering consciousness he found himself registered in the hospital under another name. Later he discovered that he was officially dead and that his wife was receiving a widow's pension. He slipped home quietly therefor and hid himself by day in the garret of the house coming down only at night when his wife was alone a pension officer found who investigated reports that the dead man had been seen.

Motorists Save Bridge
Tolls by Crossing on Ice
Superior, Wis.—That ice has other values than that of preserving food and supporting skaters is proved daily here.

During the summer months, motorists traveling between Duluth and Superior must cross the interstate toll bridge of the Great Northern railroad. Winter, however, provides a natural bridge of ice and motorists are quick to take advantage of the "winter free bridge" and save the toll charge. It is estimated that between $50,000 and $80,000 will be saved by motorists during the sixty days of ice travel.

Exports of British India
British India annually exports goods to the value of $1,200,000,000. The leading kinds of exports are raw cotton and cotton yarn and manufactures, grain and flour, raw jute and jute manufactures, seeds, tea, metals and ores, hides and skins, leather wool and woolsens. About 21 per cent of all the exports go to Great Britain.

Girl Returns from Her Dream World

Impressed by Story Book, Society Girl Followed Example of Her Heroine by Running Away and Working as Domestic.

Buffalo, Feb. 23 (AP).—Mary C. Carr, eighteen-year-old society girl, located in Rochester after having been missing two weeks from her home here, was on her way to New York today with her father, Dr. Francis J. Carr, who took the girl to the metropolis to divert her mind.

Miss Carr has resumed her place in the normal sphere of life after having returned from her dream world—the world of books—with a righteous and triumphant vindication of her self-assorted ability to live the life of a character in a book, which more than any other factor, motivated her flight from Buffalo.

The story she read and re-read before her departure was one of an unhappy girl who ran away to seek relief from the disappointments of society and earned her living as a domestic. Miss Carr followed the example of her heroine almost literally, even to becoming a servant in the home of a Rochester business man. That she succeeded in the role of a cook was attested by the fact her employers praised her cooking, especially her pies, and expressed regret at her leaving when her father appeared on the scene to claim her.

Miss Carr is none the worse for her experience. Today the whole affair appears to her as a wonderful lark. She did not at the time, she says, give thought to the worry she was causing her relatives who were conducting a wide and frantic search for her.

And, too, Mary outdid her heroine of the storybook in earning capacity. The fiction heroine received only $4 a week, whereas Mary was earning $10.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

The Ensemble Is the Rule
for Children's Clothes
Abroad — Striking
Colors are at Present
the Mode.

Cairo, Egypt.—Americans abroad frequently comment unfavorably on the way French children are dressed. It is conceded that they look "for all the world like dolls," but the American mother usually considers them overdressed in one sense, and quite underdressed in another. Their skirts are so amazingly short! It is the spectacle of the bare, wind-reddened legs that gives one qualms, and makes one believe that comfort is sacrificed to style.

Fashions change, of course, for juniors, as well as for their big sisters and mamma's, but the French idea of the proper skirt length is seemingly a changeless one. Little boys wear trousers that are barely more than trunks, while little girls are put in skirts far shorter than those the most extreme American mother would choose.

RED LEATHER TRIMMING IS A BOND BETWEEN HAT
AND COAT.

A Child's Coat is of Tweed Mixture in Tailored Fashion, with Red Leather at the Collar and Pockets. The Hat is of Red Straw Braid with a Red Leather Band.

French children are overdressed in the sense that their costumes are often beautifully fine, with hand-work, often trimmed with narrow fur bands or other embellishment, and are still more frequently in such colors as are not usually associated in our minds with children's attire. English children, on the other hand, are very simply dressed. Both English and French have the habit of dressing sisters—twins, or those near the same age—alike, this practice persisting even after they have left childhood behind.

At present, the ensemble rules for children. This invariably includes the hat, which in the case of the smaller fry is often made of the material used for the coat. French children are often given fur coats, and nearly always a leather one. Leather coats for adults as well as children are voted a European necessity for bad weather, for motor-ing, or for any sort of travel wear. British Warship Nearing Corinto

Great Britain Sends Warship to Nicaragua Coast For "Moral Effect" and a Possible Refuge For British Subjects.

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP).—The Nicaragua imbroglio assumed a wider international aspect today as the British cruiser Colombo neared Corinto, where, despite assurances of all possible protective aid by the United States naval forces on both coasts, Great Britain has decided to place this warship for "moral effect" and a possible refuge for British subjects.

Latest dispatches report the arrival of the Colombo in the Canal zone. She is expected to reach Corinto, on the west coast of Nicaragua, late tonight or tomorrow.

Meanwhile, as the situation is receiving only slight attention in British official circles in London and as the American Senate continues to waste with the Bureau resolution to send the Foreign Relations Committee on a visit of inspection to the Central American country during the congressional recess, Managua cable advice indicates that her fighting is in prospect between the Liberals and Conservatives.

The Liberal Generals, Moncada and Mera, are reported marshalling their troops for a concentrated attack either on Matagalpa or Granada. Important Nicaraguan centers. Conservative leaders in Managua also are said to be seeking a conference with the Liberals there in an effort to form a delegation to proceed to Managua's lines and attempt to persuade him to give up the fight as hopeless.

Wool's Good Qualities

Silk and wool are both non-conductors of heat. The latter retains body heat somewhat more than silk because of the air-holding spaces in the fibers and because of lower evaporation.

Free from Dust "SALADA" TEA

Bulk tea is not sifted like Salada.

This whole-grain food brings extra flavor—extra nourishment

The natural, unspiced flavor of the whole grain—that's what makes a bowl of Mother's Oats taste so good. It cooks so smoothly, too—and you can always count on it being the same. For the careful millers of Mother's Oats have learned how to make oats finer—smoother—more uniform—through 50 years of experience.

Children notice the difference at once. And mothers are especially glad to see their growing children enjoy this nourishing breakfast. They know how child health specialists are urging the whole grains these days. Mother's Oats with milk makes a liberal contribution of vitamins—minerals—protein and other elements that are necessary for sound and perfect development.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, good for silverware and many other handsome articles.

Why Havana Cops Wear White Hats

Traffic Police in Cuban City Who Speak English Are Easily Identified by Headgear—Dr. Chandler Interviewed by Havana Newspaper.

Tourists who visit Havana, Cuba, and are unable to speak the Spanish language should not overlook the fact that all of the traffic policemen in that city who speak the English language wear white hats while on duty.

That fact was made apparent to Dr. George F. Chandler while he and members of his party were visiting in Havana before sailing for the United States. While in Havana Dr. Chandler was interviewed by the editor of the leading newspaper, El Mundo, on the topic of state police. As Dr. Chandler is unable to speak Spanish and the editor was not acquainted with English the interview was conducted through an interpreter.

Dr. Chandler congratulated the Havana police force on the efficient way in which it handled traffic and also upon the innovation of having all traffic police who could speak the English language wear white hats as it was a great convenience to tourists.

At the close of the interview the Chandler party were conducted through the newspaper plant which is modern and up-to-date. The newspaper is printed in Spanish. It was owned by the late R. R. Govin, whose daughter is Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., of this city.

The interview, which was displayed prominently in the newspaper, also contained a photograph of Dr. Chandler taken in the newspaper office the same day.

GOOD ROADS

IMPROVEMENT OF ROADS REVIEWED

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Federal-aid road projects completed during the fiscal year 1926 contributed a net addition of 9,417 miles to the mileage of improved roads in the federal-aid system, according to the annual report of the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. Added to the mileage improved with federal assistance in previous years, the above brings the total length of improved federal-aid roads up to 55,992 miles.

At the close of the year construction was in progress on 10,992 miles and projects involving the improvement of 2,499 miles additional had been approved. Including the mileage of projects in these latter stages, all of which are included in the federal-aid system, the total mileage improved, or in process of improvement, with federal aid was 69,341 miles. With the exception of a few hundred miles improved prior to the designation of the federal-aid highway system in 1921, all of this mileage is included in the system.

The system now has an aggregate length of 182,134 miles. All this mileage has been selected by the state and federal highway officials as essential links of a system adequate for the accommodation of interstate traffic. Considerable work has been done on the system by the states without federal aid so that it is now not far from three-fourths initially improved. The work of improvement, however, is not three-quarters done, as increasing traffic will make it necessary to improve to a higher degree a considerable mileage of low type road such as graded earth, sand clay and gravel.

The report states that the improvement of several transcontinental routes is approaching completion. There is now a route extending from Washington through St. Louis, Texas, and El Paso to San Diego which is 97 per cent improved. The route from Atlantic City, N. J. to Astoria, Ore., is seven-eighths improved and from Boston to Seattle through the northern tier of states is 73 per cent improved and 69 per cent surfaced.

Twenty-five states have continuously improved highways entirely across them in at least one direction and sixteen of these have completed trans-state arteries in two directions.

The report contains a short discussion on national forest road construction, the relation of federal aid and forest road work, and also a review of the more conspicuous accomplishments in highway research. Among the investigations which have been of most practical value is that which was directed toward the increase of efficiency of various road construction operations, a field in which savings of from 25 to 35 per cent in earth-moving costs have been shown to be generally possible and in which it has been found that as much as 20 per cent can be saved in the cost of grading on some jobs, effected almost entirely by changes in grades.

Progress in federal aid construction in the various states is shown in the following table:

Total cost, federal aid and mileage of federal-aid roads completed to June 30, 1926, by states.

LINCOLN

Six-Brake SYSTEM

SIMPLE in construction and mechanical in action, the Lincoln six-brake system assures positive operation under all conditions.

The service brakes, of the self-energizing type, act on all four wheels. The emergency brake has a dual action: it contracts the bands around the rear brake drums, and—at the same time—expands the rear wheel brake inner shoes.

Pressure is thus applied against both the inner and outer surfaces of the rear wheel drums—giving six brake control.

When turning corners with the brakes applied, the outer front wheel brake automatically releases slightly—giving complete and easy steering control.

We would welcome an opportunity to demonstrate the remarkable efficiency of this braking system.

Made Filling Ornamental

When certain tree surgeons are called upon to fill the cavities of ailing trees with the usual composition they try to be practical and serviceable, seldom ornamental. But a Minnesota tree doctor was called on to fill a large cavity in a tree in the Longfellow gardens, Minnesota. Inspired by the Longfellow epic "Hiawatha," he fashioned a coat of the Indian in the cement in bold outline. In this park, dedicated to the great American poet, no figure could have been of more poetic fitness.

"Raising the Wind"

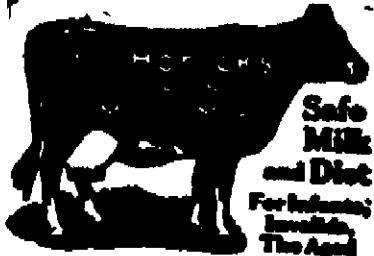

Scratching the mast is a sailor's method, not yet extinct, of raising a breeze, says Nature Magazine. Some nautical authorities say the foremost should be chosen; others the mizzen. Still another wind-raising process is to stick a knife in the mast, with the handle pointing in the direction from which the wind is desired to blow.

NEW BAPTIST CHURCH VOTE TO INCORPORATE

On Friday evening February 18, an important meeting of the congregation and members of the Union Baptist Church was held at their meeting place on Hasbrouck avenue at which time there was present the Rev. C. B. Smith, pastor of the Wurts
Street Baptist Church, the Rev. A. S.
Cole, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue, Harry Temper and Floyd W. Powell.
The pastor of the church the Rev.
C. H. King, was selected as chairman of the meeting and then the visitors explained regarding the matter of incorporation, and a vote being taken it was decided to incorporate as the "Emanuel Baptist Church of Kingston, N. Y." and the necessary papers which had been drawn up by Attorney Powell were signed.
Mrs. Lottie Donner was elected as secretary of the meeting and following were elected trustees: Walter Washington and Sylvester Van Der-zee for one year, James Landaway and Floyd Van Gaasbeck for two years. Lester Collins and Andrew Knight for three years.
After the business meeting closed an inspiring and helpful address was given by the Rev. A. S. Cole and the benediction was pronounced by the pastor the Rev. C. H. King.

Financial
and Commercial

New York, Feb. 25 (AP).—Mixed price movements, reflecting the play of opposing speculative forces, again characterized today's stock market, but the undertone generally was firm. The presidential veto of the McNary-Haugen bill was favorably commented upon by several brokerage houses, but was without apparent effect on stock speculation.

Calling of about $10,000,000 in loans incidental to end of month demand for funds sent the call money rate from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent and had a tendency to stimulate trading in recent strong spots.

Oil displayed a fairly firm under-tone in the face of a cut in gasoline prices by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Steels were slow to respond to a reported stiffening of pig iron prices. U. S. Steel common moving within a narrow radius from yesterday's final figure. Baltimore Chemical and American Smelting also were in rather free supply.
General Motors was run up several points on the report that Chevrolet production had exceeded that of Ford for the first time this month.
New York traction was bid up in expectation of the defeat in the state assembly of a bill to raise the city's debt limit to permit it to undertake municipal operation of new lines. Public utility and electrical shares continued to move up in response to the federal trade commission report practically absolving the General Electric Company of suggestions of monopolizing the light and power industry through interlocking directorates.

LIGHTING SPECIALISTS SERVICES ARE FREE

An attractive store front and the best lighting system obtainable were urged by Mr. Lazarus in his address at the banquet Thursday evening, as essential to modern retailing success. The local lighting company offers to the merchants the services of a lighting specialist who, upon request, will make a survey and offer advice regarding proper illumination.
Details of the offer and the reasons for making it are given in an advertisement printed in The Freeman today.

SPAIN REFUSES TO

in the international economic conference, convoked by the League of Nations for May. An American representative for the conference, but it is interpreted here as an indication that the Madrid government is still not ready to join the league because of its non-election to a permanent seat in the council, which led to Spain's rejection from the league.

ROUTING
SUNSHINE AIDS
IN EGG LAYING

Tests made at different experiment stations as well as the results of practical poultrymen have demonstrated that direct sunshine serves two useful purposes. It not only helps the hen to see, but it also enables her to make proper use of the minerals in her ration. This is especially true of the lime that is used in making egg shells. In young chickens the effect is noticed in the formation of bones.
Chicks not getting sunshine develop leg weakness due to poor assimilation of minerals in the ration.

Hens kept in houses that are entirely closed with glass windows do not get the beneficial influence of the sunshine, because glass does not allow the ultra-violet rays to pass through and they are the rays that carry the power of helping in the assimilation of the minerals. It is a good plan, therefore, to provide the hens with outside scratching lots where they can get the sunshine. It is also a good plan to put some of the glass substitutes which allow the ultra-violet rays to pass through, in some of the windows, or to feed cod-liver oil in the ration. Cod-liver oil contains vitamins that act as a substitute for sunshine in helping to assimilate minerals.

Recent experiments show that the sunshine not only helps in the assimilation of minerals, but that it also helps hatchability. At the Kansas station hens that were allowed access to sunshine showed a hatching record of 78 per cent as compared to 52 per cent for hens that were kept in houses with glass windows.

Early Hatched Chicks
Are Best Winter Layers

Late hatched pullets rarely lay until the middle of the winter or early spring. Chickens should be hatched not later than the last of May if they are expected to lay eggs in the late fall or early winter. Often it is difficult to get fully matured pullets before winter sets in. This can be done, however, by early hatching and proper feeding of the pullets during the later summer and early fall. If the pullets do not receive their proper growth by November and show signs of laying, it is doubtful whether they will lay to any extent until the following spring. The cockerels should be separated from the pullets as soon as possible, thus giving pullets plenty of opportunity to develop size. If they are allowed to flock with the old hens and cockerels they may be stunted, as it is impossible for them to get their proper allowance of food. Keeping them out on the range separated from the rest of the flock is the best method of handling them.

Best Quality Eggs Are Produced in the Spring

Early spring is the fowl's natural breeding season and the best quality eggs are produced at this time. These high quality eggs produce strong chicks, the mortality being lower than when late hatching is practiced. The conditions for chicks are more favorable in the spring than at a later sesson. The incubator is better ventilated and the hens have less trouble with parasites than in hot weather.
There is also an abundant green food supply which contains the necessary vitamins for proper growth. The early spring weather is much easier on the young chicks than are the hot days of June.

Good Test for Eggs

An egg may appear to be satisfactory, but when the contents are examined it may be found to be worthless for incubation. Some eggs may have cracked shells. These may be detected by the use of the taster or candler such as is used in testing eggs during incubation. Another method of detecting cracked shells is to tap two eggs gently together, and if there is a slightly ringing sound they may be considered all right. If there is a dull sound, one of the eggs is cracked and should be avoided.

Goslings With Weak Legs

Goslings that are weak in the legs and very thin sometimes are infected with worms. One remedy is to mix one-fourth pound sulphur, one-fourth pound copper sulphate and two ounces powdered copper in twenty-five pounds of the mash. The mash containing the medicine is used once each day. Goslings sometimes have congestion of the brain often due to fright, digestive disorders or worms.
Two teaspoonsful of castor oil to each gosling is sometimes a useful remedy.

Spread of Diseases

One of the common causes of the spread of infectious diseases among chicks is allowing soft feed to get mashed with the litter. If that mash is used for feeding, have them wide enough so that the feed will not be mashed or carried off. It is better still to mix strips around the boards making them trap shaped, thus to prevent any chance of trouble from this cause. Feed that gets into the litter or on the ground should be removed promptly and never fed to the chicks.

United States Birds

There are 300 different kinds of birds in this country. They are divided into 60 families, of which 20 families are common to waterfowl. 70 shore birds, 60 upland game birds, 60 kinds of song and 80 on land birds.

To Supply World's Meat?

When the world becomes densely populated, Canadian experimenters with a new breed of live stock called "Takalos," believe these animals will supply the world's meat. These cattle are now being developed in Canada by crossing buffalos with yaks, combining the meat-producing qualities of the yak with the foraging ability of the buffalo. Canada's director of animal husbandry says they breed true to type. The meat is almost identical with beef and finer grained. The animals are hardy, forage for themselves and winter in the open, besides being resistant to many diseases of domestic cattle.
The explorer Stefansson declares the Arctic circle is lotime to produce the world's meat supply. Possibly this is the beginning—

His Feeling

"I was driving to home yesterday with my wife and two of the girls in the back seat of the car to make it ride easier," said Farmer Fillingate.
"We stopped at the gasoline filling station by and by, and the women folks got out to get a drink of water. After having the tank filled I drove off.
I kept hearing a yelling somewhere for quite a spell, and felt in my pocket to see if I had failed to pay the man at the station. No, but I'd paid him, all right. I drove on for about five miles, when I happened to look back, and found I'd absent-mindedly driven off and left the women."
"My cats!" ejaculated Farmer Filler.
"What made you do that?"
"I don't know, unless I got to be absent-mindedly thinking I was a college professor."—Kansas City Times.

Artist Prodigious

Isidore Duncan, the famous dancer, is in want in Paris, and a collection is being made to set her on her feet again. Otto Kahn, one of the most liberal supporters of this movement said in New York the other day:
"Isidore Duncan, like most artists of genius, is too generous, too generous altogether. Her prodigious, reckless generosity once caused John Drew to say about her in a slack season:
"I think I'll dress up as a beggar and go to Isidore's house, and what I collect may keep her till she gets ad-other management."

Fireman Relieved Job

The fire alarm sounded from the southside of Ward 7, Ronger, Maine, and when the firemen arrived after a hard run in deep snow, they found no sign of fire, nor could any one in the neighborhood explain why the alarm had been turned in. Finally an old woman appeared and said that her family was in great distress. A streak had fallen into their well and she thought the firemen ought to pull it out. But the firemen did not.

Justification, in Law

Justification is false boasting which may injure another. Justification is a false statement by a person that he or she is married to another, whereby a common reputation of their matrimony may be established. A justification suit is a legal action to compel a person from giving out such a statement.

Three Found Dead
In Chicago Hotel

Woman Guest and Her Small Son of Rich Apartment Hotel Found Apparently Asphyxiated — Wealthy Hotel Manager Found Shot to Death.

Chicago, Feb. 25 (AP).—Several hours after a woman guest of the hotel and her small son had been found dead early today, apparently asphyxiated, John Rich, wealthy manager of the Rich apartment
hotel, in the fashionable Rogers Park neighborhood, was found shot to death in the basement of the hotel.

Police who had awakened Rich to tell him of the guests' death returned at the call of a houseman to find the manager lying dead on a coal pile in the boiler room, apparently, they said, a suicide.

The woman and child were the family of Howard Reneau, manager of a branch office of the Postal Tel-graph Company, who returned home to find them dead. They appeared to have been killed by seeping of poison fumes from an adjacent apartment fumigated yesterday, detectives said after a preliminary examination.

Fumes in the Reneau apartment
were so heavy that police experienced difficulty in entering, and a physician declared that a small quantity of the fumes, evidently from use of liquid cyanide as a fumigating agent, would be fatal.
Hotel employees said nothing was seen of Rich between the time he was told of the deaths and when his body was found by the janitor.
The manager, who had a wife and two stepchildren, was shot through the heart.
Reneau was held by the police while the investigation progressed.

Famous Soloist at Schubert Concert

Noted Polish Singer Who Comes Here Monday Is Also Classed as Dramatic Artist—Has Many Accomplishments to Her Credit.

An exceptional treat will be given the music lovers of Kingston and Ulster county at the concert to be held Monday evening, February 28, at the high school auditorium. At this time the Schubert Choral Club will present Mile. Suzanne D'Astoria, coloratura soprano, prima donna of the Monte Carlo Opera Company of Nice, France.

Mile. D'Astoria, Polish distinction Jackowska, is here under the direction of the Polish and French Consulates. She will appear this week at the Cort Theatre, New York city, as the solo artist in a benefit for the Polish relief. Owing to the necessity of her return to Poland in early spring, she will have time to give concerts in but six of the larger cities.

The noted artist has received the medal of honor from the Paris Society of Arts, Sciences and Letters. D'Astoria is one of the thirty-five women who have been elected to membership in the Paris Society of Authors and Composers. This distinction was won through her translations and arrangements of folk songs among which are those composed by Paderewski and Chopin and others written over one thousand years ago. It is interesting to note that these songs to be included in her program Monday evening will be sung in America for the first time.

Mile. D'Astoria will give short explanations of these, and also interpret them in steps of the Polish dance. D'Astoria, as the Nun in the London production of "The Miracle," was classed as a dramatic artist as well as a vocal artist. Her pleasing personality won the hearts of the public during the many performances. She also added to her list of friends many of the American boys at the time of the World War when she entertained in over forty American "Y" Camps.

Following the evening's entertainment, patrons of the concert are most cordially invited to the informal reception and dance to be given Mile. D'Astoria at the Y. W. C. A. Auditorium, 14 Henry street.

The final rehearsal of the club will be held this evening at 7 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. auditorium.

U. S. Aviators At Argentine

Bella Blanca, Argentina, Feb. 25 (AP). After a notable voyage over the Andes mountains in four hydro-airplanes, the United States army aviators are testing on Argentine soil in their food will fight to South American countries.

They arrived here from Valdivia, Chile, yesterday afternoon, having made the 630-mile trip in six hours, fifteen minutes. Commander Herbert A. Dague, in charge of the flight, declared the hop from Valdivia eastward was made in good weather and the trip was pleasant. The only difficulty met by his plane, came when it had to rise to a height of 12,900 feet in crossing the mountains.

Forefront of Mangin Praised by American

The late Gen. Charles Mangin's habit of studying and respecting the viewpoint of others amounted to a gift for understanding men and situations. He understood both English and Americans better than any Frenchman I know. He was able intelligently to admit their qualities and condone their limitations. David Gray writes in the Century Magazine.

Similarly he understood his own race. If he had been at the head of the French military regime there would have been few disagreements with the allied commands. He was one of the few few French officers who from the beginning had correctly appraised the American attitude for war, and he deplored the plan of using American manpower to reform depleted French and British organizations, which at one time threatened a serious breach with Pershing.

"General Pershing is entirely right," he told me. "You are a fighting people. As a great power you must have your own armies. From the beginning you have done well with your divisions. You will learn the higher staff work quickly. Your officers are serious and trained to work."

He further admired Pershing for insisting, despite the opposition of the French and British authorities, on training for open warfare at a time when it was generally believed the western front could never be successfully pierced.

Mangin was emphatically opposed to the policy of trench fighting. He pointed out that the daily wastage of men quickly amounted to the losses of an offensive battle with nothing to show for it. Moreover the shell wounds characteristic of trench war reduced the percentage of recoveries and prolonged the average time of convalescence.

I had been with him but a short time when he opened his casualty lists to me that I might make a report on his losses during his first month of heavy open fighting, which proved his contention.

His own theory of war was the offensive first, last, and always; and he carried it in practice further than any general since Napoleon with the exception of Foch.
